

Kintsugi: The Art of Broken Pottery

With Adam Nielsen

Date: Saturday, June 14th

Time: 12pm-5pm

Fee: Members: $65 Non-Members: $75

Age/Level: Adult

Deadline to Register: June 6th

Discover the art and philosophy of kintsugi- the Japanese practice of repairing broken pottery with gold, transforming flaws into features. Bring one piece of broken pottery approximate size of a coffee mug/cereal bowl broken into no more than 3 pieces. If you don't have a piece and would still like to participate, contact Education Director, Holly Zinn Hample at education@lakesart.org to reserve one.

Workshop Supplies to Bring:

- One piece of pottery broken into no more than 3 pieces no larger than coffee mug/cereal bowl size.
For any questions regarding pottery pieces, Send a photo and question to education@lakeasart.org.
- Suggested: Prepare for the outdoors with a sun hat, sunscreen, bug spray if you wish.

PLAC will provide:

- Kintsugi kits
- All tools to repair pieces
- Aprons
- Bottled Water

Example of how few pieces your pottery should be broken to have a successful experience.
